Skin Spots

SKIN LIGHTENING

Pigmentation issues, such as dark spots or uneven skin tone, can affect anyone regardless of age or skin type. These discolorations often result from an overproduction of melanin, the pigment responsible for skin color, triggered by factors like sun exposure, hormonal changes, or skin injuries. While pigmentation is usually harmless, many individuals seek treatment for cosmetic reasons or to address underlying skin conditions.

Causes of Pigmentation:

1. Sun Exposure: Ultraviolet (UV) radiation from the sun stimulates melanin production, leading to sunspots or freckles.
2. Hormonal Changes: Pregnancy, birth control pills, or hormonal fluctuations can cause melasma, a type of pigmentation often appearing as dark patches on the face.
3. Skin Injuries: Acne, cuts, or inflammation can leave behind dark marks known as post-inflammatory hyperpigmentation.
4. Genetics: Some people are more prone to pigmentation issues due to their genetic makeup.

Highly effective treatment for skin renewal

With age, the skin becomes thicker, loses transparency, wrinkles dig deeper and the nourishment of the lower horny layers deteriorates. The skin looks tired, dull, uneven and blotchy. Particularly effective is the combination of the ASA Peel® care with the higher-dosed products of the ASA Peel® cabin treatment.
